For questions 80-85, read the passage and choose the best answer.

Hello, my name is Cathy. I come from California, U.S. I have just finished my degree in tourism. Having already experienced travelling in South America, Europe, and Australia, I decided on a backpacking trip for three months, starting in Thailand, and ending in Cambodia. The first place I visited in Thailand was Khao San Road. I immediately went to a food stand where I tried Phad Thai for the first time. It was very delicious.

In the evening, I went for a Thai massage; the masseuse was really professional and friendly. The next day, I went back out and casually walked down the street. To my shock and amazement, I saw a lady selling scorpions on a stick. I started to wonder what other interesting, exotic animals I may be asked to eat.

My next destination was Cambodia. Firstly, I decided to visit Siem Reap, which is located in the Northwest of Cambodia. My main reason for visiting Siem Reap was to see the temples of Angkor Wat. I was very interested in going to Angkor Wat to learn about the history of Cambodia. I was shocked to see many people on one motorbike. This is not only common in Cambodia, but also across Asia.

I found that during my travels around the world the Southeast Asia people seem to be generally happier than people in the West.

80. What is the topic of this article?
- clothes
  - religion
  - travel
  - education
81. Which continent did Cathy visit last?
- South America
  - Asia
  - Europe
  - Africa
82. Which country in Southeast Asia did Cathy visit first?
- Cambodia
  - France
  - Thailand
  - South America
83. Why did Cathy visit Siem Reap?
- to visit family
  - to visit friends
  - to learn Khmer Language
  - to learn about Cambodian history
84. What two things gave Cathy culture shock?
- seeing scorpions and many people on one motorbike
  - dogs roaming on the streets and delicious Phad Thai
  - motorbikes driving too fast and exotic animals
  - strange foods and Angkor Wat temple
85. What does Cathy think about the difference between Asian and Western people?
- Asian people are happier.
  - Western people are happier.
  - She thinks there are equally happy.
  - She thinks there is no difference.

For questions 86, read the passage and choose the best answer.

Phu Kradueng National Park is probably the most famous national park in Thailand. It is a very popular walking spot. It sits atop a plateau and has extensive walking tracks among grasslands, montane pine forests, dry deciduous forests and evergreen forests. Like Nam Nao National Park, this elevated forest is a good deal cooler than the surrounding countryside. The Phu Kradueng experience begins with a moderately challenging 5.5km hike up the mountain, and once you are at the top, there is a choice of trails to explore, taking you to waterfalls and cliff-top viewpoints.
